

Hygiene for your guests, without compromising on hospitality.

In the light of the current situation, hygiene has become more important than ever before. Being able to wash your hands with soap is of vital importance for our health. Even when there's no direct access to water, we want to be able to clean our hands. Now the hospitality industry is facing a new challenge; besides keeping 1,5 m distances, there's a new need for hygiene.

Luxurious cleansing

To ensure that restaurants and hotels can offer their guests a hygienic hospitality experience, Marie-Stella-Maris will introduce a luxurious 'cleansing hand gel' this June. The addition of the hand gel is a logical move, alongside their collection of luxurious hand soap and scent diffusers. Marie-Stella-Maris got several demands from various hospitality partners for a product that cleanses without using water.

The cleansing hand gel (70% alcohol)

The hand gel cleanses your hands and keeps them hydrated, without the use of water. Next to the highly efficient cleansing ingredients, the products contain different (botanical) ingredients that hydrate your hands and provide a unique scent experience. The gel contains 70% alcohol, which reduces microbial growth and by adding glycerin, it makes sure your skin will feel hydrated. To create a sense of freshness, lavender geranium and rosemary are added, these ingredients also provide a unique scent and guarantee a hygienic experience.

Product range and availability

To fit the needs of different spaces Marie-Stella-Maris offers a variety of SKU's (packaging). They have the 500 ml essential bottle to place in public spaces such as the entrance or at the reception desk, the toilets or next to the elevators. From a sustainability point of view these 500 ml essential bottles come with 5000 ml refill containers, to minimize the joint waste production together. In addition to the refillable bottle they offer 30 ml or 50 ml sized miniatures, which you can use as a complimentary gift for your guests in the hotel room or as a 'have a safe trip home' gift at check-out. The cleansing hand gel will be available in June 2020.
